Jamie Garelick focuses her practice on commercial real estate and corporate transactions for companies and individuals in a variety of industries.

Jamie represents property owners, tenants, landlords, investors, and borrowers in connection with leases, acquisitions, and dispositions, as well as the development and financing of commercial, industrial, and retail properties.

She also counsels privately owned businesses, providing advice and strategic consultation to her clients in connection with business formation and organization, strategic partnerships, joint ventures, asset purchases and sales, and other business and operational matters. In addition to her experience helping construct businesses and guide their development, she has been instrumental in helping clients resolve disputes and unwind business relationships.

Prior to attending law school, Jamie was a political consultant and a public policy advisor to the County Executive of Rockland County, New York. She has also served as an intern to former New York Gov. Mario Cuomo and Dr. Gordon Brown, former prime minister of England.

Outside The Firm

Jamie enjoys coaching little league, boxing, biking, and watching football.
